THE TELEPOST will command the telegraphic business of the United States because:—

1. It gives the most rapid service, transmitting 1000 words per minute over a single wire.
2. It gives the most trustworthy service; being a machine, it transmits and records with absolute accuracy.
3. It can send a full-page newspaper article from New York to Chicago in ten minutes over a single wire, and at a small fraction of the Western Union's press rate.
4. The Telepost is extending its lines rapidly and will cover the entire United States in a surprisingly short period; it requires only 4 wires on its main trunk lines to handle as much business as the old companies can do on 68 wires worked duplex, or on 136 wires worked quadruplex, or on their most efficient methods.
5. The Telepost gives the cheapest service: 10-word telegrams for 10 cents; 25-word telegrams, or 50-word "telepost," or 100-word "teletapes" for 25 cents regardless of distance. Yet the Telepost, with its low rates makes an average profit per message, four times that of the Western Union at its high rates.

TELEPOST

As the Telepost Company will rapidly extend its lines into every State in the Union, the widest possible territorial distribution of its stock is of first importance. Subscriptions from each State are therefore restricted in the ratio of population, a portion having been set aside for customers of the Sterling Debenture Corporation in foreign lands. The subscription lists for Series C are now open.

All shares are common, full paid and non-assessable, as set forth in the prospectus. There are no "preferred shares" or bonds to take first profits. Allotments will be made, at par value, $10 a share, to first applicants for any number of shares, from one to one hundred, as long as shares are available for your State. No applicant will be allotted more than one hundred shares in this Series. Orders by telegraph will be honored if immediately confirmed by mail.

NO PAYMENT is to be made by you until we have returned to you an official notification that the required number of shares have been reserved for you. After receiving such notice, payment may be made in ten equal monthly instalments.

To avoid all chance of error in reserving stock for you, please write very plainly the items asked for below:
